

Aier School of Ophthalmology

Open positions at ASO

The Aier School of Ophthalmology (ASO), located in Changsha, the capital city of central China's Hunan province, was established by Central South University and the Aier Eye Hospital Group (Aier), China's largest eye care service provider. As the first specialized ophthalmic college in the country, ASO will focus on Aier's long-term development strategy of basic and clinical research, and leverage its strong financial position and rich clinical resources from over 120 affiliated professional eye hospitals, to train the next generation of talented ophthalmic researchers and professionals.

ASO is now inviting applications for the following positions:

1. Associate Dean of ASO
2. Vice Director of the Aier Research Institute of Ophthalmology
3. Research Principal Investigators (PI) in the fields of stem cells and precision medicine

Qualifications:

- A doctoral degree in medical science
- Prior employment as an associate professor or more senior level
- Demonstrated strong scientific research ability, with more than 10 publications in leading, peer-reviewed international journals
- A track record of securing external funding in overseas countries
- Excellent communication and organizational skills as well as a strong sense of responsibility

爱尔眼科
AIER EYE HOSPITAL

Salaries and benefits:

- Annual salary: 500,000–1,000,000 RMB (around 80,000–150,000 USD)
- Research funds as needed
- 2–3 research assistants (including PhD students)
- Accommodation for a transition period after relocation
- An offer of Aier share options
- An offer of Aier partnership program options
- Reimbursement of travel expenses for domestic and international academic meetings
- Incentives for publications in high-level journals
- Incentives for science and technology achievements
- Reimbursement of overseas travel expenses for up to two family-reunion trips a year
- Basic insurance and other fringe benefits in accordance with national regulations
- Recommendation and support for applications to various kinds of talent programs and funds

To apply:

Please send a curriculum vitae and a brief cover letter stating your career and research interests to Shibo Tang, professor and dean of ASO, Central South University at tangshibo@vip.163.com.